There once was a hippopotamus named Rhoda
She liked to sing and play the guitar
At night on the river she'd sing for the animals
Under the moon and the stars

Now the monkeys, the tigers, the birds and snakes
Would travel to hear her from near and far
At night on the river they'd all sing together
Under the moon and the stars
And they'd sing

Chorus

We are all together, river run
We are all together, under the moon stars and sun
We are all together, everyone

There was another hippopotamus named Willie
He liked to sing and dance the waltz
At night on the river he'd sit down and cry
Under the moon and the stars

For Willie the hippo lived so far away
He had no friends to dance with or play
At night on the river he's waltz all alone
Under the moon and the stars

Bridge

But Rhoda found out about Willie and then
She got together her animal friends
They walked all day and they walked all night
Until they found Willie and to his surprise
They danced and they sang and they watched the sun rise
Singing

Chorus

We are all together, river run
We are all together, under the moon stars and sun
We are all together, everyone
Now and forever we are together everyone
